

Eric Setzekorn's Arming East Asia addresses a major gap in the history of the U.S. military in the Cold War and specifically advisory missions in the Far East. Although some studies have covered American advisors in South Korea and South Vietnam, none have the comprehensive reach of this book.

NAVAL HISTORY AND HERITAGE COMMAND

Now Available!

In the summer of 1900, 56 American sailors and marines were part of an international guard defending Beijing's Legation Quarter against imperial Chinese soldiers and "Boxers," members of a secret society determined to rid China of foreign influence. Relief of the quarter required additional U.S. sailors, marines, and soldiers to join a multinational force against the numerically superior Chinese. The conflict was the U.S. military's first taste of coalition warfare on the global stage. This monograph tracks the critical role of the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps in both the defense of the Legation Quarter and in the campaign that led to its relief.

NACA to NASA to NOW THE FRONTIERS OF AIR AND SPACE IN THE AMERICAN CENTURY

tells the story of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA) and its successor, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). This book explores how and why aerospace technology took the course it did, discusses some of the key people who drove aerospace science and technology development, and explores the political, economic, managerial, international, and cultural contexts in which the events of flight have unfolded.

This fascinating work, written by Roger D. Launius, former NASA Chief Historian, illuminates the storied, multifaceted history of this agency in a single concise volume. It serves as an excellent introduction and resource for journalists, scholars, and the general public to understand NASA's rich heritage.
